SureFire® Expands Product Portfolio with Release of Second Pen

Fountain Valley, CA -- SureFire, LLC, manufacturer of the world's finest illumination tools and tactical products, has released the second offering in its new line of pens. The Pen II, a precision writing instrument with attitude, provides many of the benefits of the original SureFire™ Pen in a more compact body with a bold, ergonomic design.

The SureFire Pen™ II is the follow up to the twist-to-deploy SureFire Pen released in 2008 from SureFire's Edged Weapons Division, helmed by renowned knife maker Steve Ryan. SureFire Pens incorporate unique mechanisms and rock-solid construction which make them ideal for any situation, and provide a lifetime of quality that SureFire customers have come to expect.

Like our famous flashlights and weapon lights, the Pen II is CNC machined at SureFire facilities in Southern California, from aerospace-grade aluminum that's hard anodized. Each one is accented with a stainless steel pocket clip and tip that resists wear and corrosion. A pushbutton tailcap quietly extends (and retracts) the included Schmidt® Technology easyFLOW 9000 ink cartridge and lets you lay down words with ease—or do whatever you need to do.

At just over 5" (12.9 cm) and 1.6 ounces (45 grams), SureFire Pen II is well-balanced and a perfect companion for travel to any destination. The Pen II's classic torpedo shape is reminiscent of many classic, iconic fountain pens that have been in use over the last 100 years.

For more information about the SureFire Pen II, available in black or blue, visit SureFire.com or call 1-800-828-8809. Each Pen has an individual serial number, is backed by SureFire's No-Hassle Warranty, and has an MSRP of $90.
